CALL OUT FOR ARTIST SUBMISSIONS

The Isle, Simon Woolham, video still, 2008

Fermynewoods Contemporary Art is an independent arts organisation that works with artists and audiences to develop an innovative programme of artist residencies and commissions, site-specific installations and participatory events, that explore issues relating to art, ecology, natural and urban environments.

Last year the organisation closed its gallery space to broaden its work in the public realm. Part of this refocus involved a significant redevelopment of the website, which was launched earlier this year. We are now inviting artists to submit work for a new online Open Exhibition, such as text-based work, series of photographs, sound and moving images that enquire into our relationships with our physical and social, urban and rural environments.

The applications will be judged by a panel; Andrew Stonyer (University of Northampton) and artist Simon Woolham.

Please contact FCA for an application form via email: info@fermywoods.co.uk, by phone +44 (0)1832 733009, or download a form from our website: <http://www.fermywoods.co.uk/current-programme/online-open/>
