FERMYNWOODS CONTEMPORARY ART SEEKS NEW HOME

Arts organisation appoint consultancy team at exciting juncture for organisation

Fermynwoods Contemporary Art are delighted to announce that we have appointed consultancy team, People Make It Work, to help us work towards securing a sustainable future and a permanent new home, with the support of a significant philanthropic donation.

People Make It Work will assist us in reviewing opportunities, appraising options and exploring different models for achieving our organisational ambitions within the boundaries of North Northamptonshire.

Their team will also carry out organisational and governance reviews to help scope and plan a strategy over the coming months, engaging with our team, Board, partners and key stakeholders, facilitating consultations with our artists and our communities.

Director of Fermynwoods Contemporary Art, James Steventon, commented, "Fermynwoods was founded twenty-five years ago and it is a very special organisation. We are thrilled to be working alongside People Make It Work who both recognise what is unique and special about us, but equally have the vast skills and experience specific to developing an organisation like ours. Here's to another twenty-five years."

Sandeep Mahal, Director of Sector Change at People Make It Work said, "It is our mission to support vital, thriving organisations such as Fermynwoods Contemporary Art in forging bright, bold and prosperous futures. It is immensely exciting to be working alongside them to build on their successes and to realise their ambitions. We look forward to lending our expertise throughout this process and contributing to their long-term sustainability and growth."
